EXECUTIVE SUMMARY:

The Government are currently consulting on proposed reforms to the general consents under which councils have freedom to dispose of council housing assets and regulations governing the use of receipts arising from such disposals.

The intention of the proposed changes is to ensure that receipts from non-Right to Buy (or similar) sales can continue to be retained by local authorities provided they are spent on affordable housing, for regeneration purposes or for paying off Housing Revenue Account debt. To achieve this, it is proposed to update the regulations to clarify the position regarding the pooling of receipts and not to inadvertently disadvantage any authority.

The proposals in the consultation recognise the existing complexities of the disposals and pooling regulations and the potential that the current rules can act contrary to intended Government policy. It is recommended that the proposals be welcomed in full and that the Council supports early implementation of the revised draft regulations.

RECOMMENDATIONS

That Cabinet authorise the Head of Landlord Services in consultation with the Portfolio Holder for Strategic Housing and Landlord Services to respond directly to the consultation paper in accordance with the draft responses as set out in the Report.

STREAMLINING COUNCIL HOUSING ASSET MANAGEMENT: DISPOSALS AND RECEIPTS – RESPONSE TO CONSULTATION PAPER

REPORT OF HEAD OF LANDLORD SERVICES

DETAIL:

1 Introduction

- 1.1 Local authorities have powers under Part II of the Housing Act 1985 to dispose of council housing assets. For many years, Government policy has sought to permit the sale of Council assets as part of councils overall asset management strategy and to encourage “best use of stock”. This has been encouraged by allowing councils to retain 100% of receipts from sales, provided that the receipts are used to invest in affordable housing or regeneration.
- 1.2 However, to protect against councils exploiting an opportunity to avoid Right to Buy restrictions, the policy was only to cover what the Government classed as “non right to buy” disposals. In drafting the regulations to address this, the Government has effectively classed any sale to an individual who occupies the property for their own use as a “Right to Buy” sale. As a result, general consents permit sales to individuals although pooling restrictions have been written in such a way as to discourage it, arguably contrary to Government intended policy. The net result is a confusing and conflicting set of regulations that are now recognised as not being fit for purpose.
- 1.3 The proposed changes set out in the Consultation Paper seek to reduce the number of situations where local authorities must first seek the consent of the Secretary of State before disposing of their interest in council housing assets and to simplify the regulations governing the use of receipts arising from such disposals.
- 1.4 In addition to simplifying the regulations, the Government is clarifying in what circumstances the local authority must surrender 75 per cent of the receipt from a disposal to central Government. The proposal is for this to be the case when the sale is made to existing (or recent) council tenants. Receipts from sales to other individuals for owner-occupation may be retained provided they are used for specified purposes.
- 1.5 To facilitate the introduction of self-financing for social housing, these specified purposes will include spending on affordable housing and regeneration, and repaying housing debt connected to the particular asset being sold. Under the self-financing settlement, each local housing authority will take on a level of debt associated with each individual house or flat in its possession. It is therefore essential that when a local authority disposes of houses and flats it must be able to make provision for clearing the debt associated with it. This will enable councils to maintain healthy balance sheets for their social housing, which is vital for continued investment in new housing.

- 1.6 Responses to the consultation are required by 17 November 2011. The key elements of the consultation are set out below, along with suggested responses to the questions included in the consultation.

2 Disposals at Market Value

- 2.1 The draft proposals suggest that restrictions on councils to dispose of properties at market value should only apply where:
- a) the disposal results in a tenant of the council becoming the tenant of a private landlord; or
 - b) the disposal is of a dwelling to a wholly owned subsidiary of the local authority (such disposals provide a means of avoiding the borrowing cap imposed under self-financing).

Consultation Question 1

Do you think there are situations where such disposals should not require the consent of the Secretary of State?

No. The Council wants to see the flexibilities and freedoms regarding market sales implemented as suggested in the consultation paper and supports the proposals to clarify the existing rules, which are confusing and act contrary to Government policy. However, some control on the situations listed is accepted.

- 2.2 Local authorities would not have to seek specific consent to dispose at market value to individuals or bodies not wholly or partly owned by them (e.g. registered housing associations) of:
- a) vacant properties
 - b) occupied properties to the tenants
 - c) properties occupied by tenants of other landlords (e.g. where the property has already been leased to a housing association)
 - d) communal parts of flats
 - e) garages, drying areas, and other housing assets that are not used as accommodation
 - f) empty plots of land.

Consultation Question 2

Do you think there are situations where such disposals should require the consent of the Secretary of State?

No, the Council consider that the proposals in the list above are reasonable and requiring consent in these areas acts contrary to Localism.

2.3 Disposal of reversionary interests

2.4 Local authorities will continue to be free to dispose to the occupants of their reversionary interest in houses and flats at market value.

2.5 This consent overlaps the right to enfranchise that the lessee of a house or the leaseholders in a block of flats have under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 or the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 (as amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002). No consent under section 32 of the Housing Act 1985 is required if the statutory right is exercised. However, circumstances may occasionally arise where the statutory right is not exercisable.

2.6 For example, if the local authority is not the freeholder, the lessee/leaseholders may wish to acquire the authority's leasehold interest but not wish, or be unable, to acquire the freehold.

Consultation Question 3

Do you agree that local authorities should not require the consent of the Secretary of State to dispose of such interests?

The Council supports the proposals.

3 Disposals at discounts

3.1 Disposals at market value enable local authorities to pay off the debt associated with such properties, and thereby maintain the viability of the Housing Revenue Account business. Disposals at less than market value put this at risk and the Government wishes to retain some control over such disposals.

3.2 However the Government wishes to support offering up land and properties for sale at less than market value where this:

- a) helps social tenants into sustainable home ownership
- b) helps people find accommodation whom the local authority deem in need of support (e.g. certain key workers or former military personnel)

- c) helps create mixed communities
- d) assists the provision of new social housing or wider regeneration.

4 Vacant land sold at a discount

- 4.1 The current General Consents permit the disposal of vacant land at a discount determined by the local authority (which could be 100 per cent), but only where the land is to be used for certain specified purposes. The Government wishes to continue to permit such disposals, but leave it to the local authority to determine that the proposed use of the land will be beneficial to its community.

Consultation Question 4

Do you think that a limit should be placed on the amount of discount a local authority can offer on vacant land?

No. The City Council already positively exploit opportunities to support development of affordable housing through this General Consent. The additional flexibility proposed is supported.

Consultation Question 5

Do you think that such disposals should be limited only to such situations where the land will be used for certain specified purposes?

No. A local authority is only likely to offer discounts if it wishes to promote an outcome not sustainable through market sales. The proposed flexibility is welcomed.

5 Homes sold at discounts

- 5.1 The current General Consents permit a number of discounted sales of council homes. The Government feels that these are overly complicated and that discounts should be more uniform and related to the Right to Buy (as provided by Part V of the Housing Act 1985).
- 5.2 The Government therefore proposes to give a general consent to the disposal to existing council tenants of:
- a) vacant houses up to the maximum discount to which the tenant would have been entitled had they had a tenancy of it
 - b) occupied houses to tenants who do not have the Right to Buy up to a discount equivalent to the discount to which they would have been entitled had they just qualified for the Right to Buy

- c) occupied houses to tenants who have the Right to Buy acquiring with others who do not have that right at the relevant discount. Whilst this could help tenants with limited resources, there could be a risk here of development companies and/or private landlords exploiting this opportunity.
- 5.3 The Government further proposes to give a general consent to the disposal of vacant houses to people who are not existing council tenants at a discount up to that to which they would have been entitled had they just qualified for the Right to Buy. This could allow councils to sell assets at less than market value if they wished and may help dispose of properties at times of low demand. However, it is difficult to see an application for this in Winchester, even in the current climate.
- 5.4 It will continue to be the case that the General Consents cannot be used to dispose of a house to someone who would otherwise have the Right to Buy it. This is to ensure that a tenant is not unwittingly disadvantaged.

Consultation Question 6

Do you think that these discounts are appropriate?

The discounts stated are reasonable based on existing levels of discounts for Right to Buy. However, the Council does not support the proposal to allow tenants with the right to buy to work with others who do not have the right to buy a property, as this could allow development companies/private landlords to exploit this opportunity. The Council does have some concern with recent proposals to significantly increase discounts as part of the Government's Right to Buy policy.

Consultation Question 7

Do you think that there are other situations where local authorities should be permitted to dispose of council housing assets at a discount?

Whilst the Council supports the flexibility offered by this proposal, it agrees that situations where discounts can be offered should be limited and can see no need for additional situations to be added here. The maximum discounts stated are supported, although it is understood these are under review.

Consultation Question 8

Do you think that there are situations included in the list above where local authorities should not be permitted to offer a discount?

The flexibility offered by this proposal is supported, although the Council supports limiting discounts to the situations listed.

- 5.5 Local authorities will also have freedom to grant a lease of a term of less than seven years and grant an assignment of a lease which at the date of the assignment has not more than seven years to run, but not if the lease is to a body wholly or partly owned by it.
- 6 Shared ownership
- 6.1 The revised General Consents permit disposals without specific consent to individuals on shared ownership terms, either at market value or at a discount pro-rated to match discounts permitted regionally under the Right to Buy.
- 6.2 There will be no restrictions on the shares that might be offered. The rent paid on the share retained by the local authority however will have to be set at a pro-rated rate in line with Government policy on social rents. Local authorities will be able to set restrictions on sub-letting where they wish to do so.
- 6.3 These reforms mean that it will no longer be necessary to seek specific consent to offer Social Home Buy sales.

Consultation Question 11

Do you think that there are situations where a local authority should require the consent of the Secretary of State before entering into a shared ownership arrangement with an individual?

No, the flexibility offered by the proposal is supported.

7 The Pooling of Housing Capital Receipts

- 7.1 The proposals are not seeking views on the principle of pooling itself. The Spending Review 2010 concluded that pooling (and in particular the requirement that 75 per cent of the net receipt arising from Right to Buy (and similar) sales be surrendered to central Government) should continue as a necessary part of addressing the deficit in the nation's finances.
- 7.2 The proposals do however suggest amending the 2003 Regulations to make clear that sales similar to the Right to Buy are ones to existing (or recent) council tenants. This is not clear in the existing regulations and is contrary to the Government's intended Policy. It is this lack of clarity that has resulted in councils including Winchester arriving at differing interpretations of the regulations regarding previous sales.

- 7.3 Under the proposals local authorities will be free to retain the net receipt from sales to other individuals or bodies provided it is spent on affordable housing, regeneration projects or paying off Housing Revenue Account debt.
- 7.4 The amendments to the Local Authorities (Capital Finance and Accounting) (England) (Amendment) Regulations 2003 (“the 2003 Regulations”) being introduced to accompany the introduction of self financing and the alterations to the general consents on disposals, aim to:
- a) clarify those receipts that must be surrendered to central Government
 - b) simplify and make fairer the treatment of Social HomeBuy and other shared ownership receipts
 - c) simplify the provisions on determining when pooling payments are due
 - d) simplify the incentives for local authorities to buy back dwellings
 - e) rationalise and extend the provisions on capital allowance (including making the paying off of Housing Revenue Account debt permissible expenditure); and
 - f) abolish defunct provisions.

Consultation Question 12

a. Does any part of the Proposed Amendment Regulations fail to effect the six aims listed above?

The City Council supports the proposed amendments. The existing regulations are unclear and have resulted directly in sales made in accordance with general consents and Government policy (to promote investment affordable housing) failing to achieve that aim.

The abolishing of regulation 14 (3) is welcomed. The interpretation of “Right to Buy” sales in the regulation (and subsequent guidance on its interpretation) is clumsy and has the direct effect of reducing resources available for affordable housing rather than promoting it, as originally intended.

8 SUSTAINABLE COMMUNITY STRATEGY AND CHANGE PLANS (RELEVANCE TO):

8.1 The Sustainable Community Strategy and Change Plans contain provisions to increase the supply of affordable housing and disposals of land and properties form a key element of the Council's action to support this.

1 Introduction

- 1.1 The Government is committed to reducing bureaucracy generally and burdens on local government specifically. Its intention is that intervention in local housing affairs by central Government be kept to a minimum and be enacted where it is necessary to protect public finances or the rights of individuals.
- 1.2 The Government is also committed (through measures in the Localism Bill currently before Parliament) to reform radically the way council housing is financed. Through a one-off self-financing settlement (planned for April 2012), local authorities will get the right to retain all the rental income generated from their stock. The settlement will give local authorities far greater control of their assets, allowing them to plan their businesses over much longer periods.
- 1.3 Our policy on self-financing was set out in “Implementing Self-Financing” (February 2011) (www.communities.gov.uk/publications/housing/implementingselffinancing) and “Self-Financing: Planning the Transition” (July 2011) (www.communities.gov.uk/publications/housing/selffinancetransition).
- 1.4 It is against this background that this consultation paper should be read.
- 1.5 The paper seeks views on reducing the number of situations where local authorities must first seek the consent of the Secretary of State before disposing of their interest in council housing assets. It also seeks views on our proposed simplification of the regulations governing use of the receipts arising from such disposals (under a system we call “pooling”).
- 1.6 The paper poses a number of specific questions. When responding it would be useful if you could identify which questions you are answering. However we would also welcome general comments too.

2 The General Consent under Section 32 of the Housing Act 1985 to Dispose of Housing Land

- 2.1 Local authorities hold land for housing purposes under powers provided to them by Part II of the Housing Act 1985. Section 32 of the Act provides powers to dispose of such land, but requires that this can be done only with the consent of the Secretary of State. Section 34 of the Act permits the Secretary of State to grant consent generally: i.e. where certain pre-conditions are met then the local authority is free to dispose without first having to secure the Secretary of State's agreement.
- 2.2 The current General Consents issued under section 32 of the Housing Act 1985 were issued in 2005. They prescribe a limited number of situations where specific consent is not required either to dispose at market value or to dispose at a discount. We feel that the current consent regime now runs counter to the principles of localism and decentralisation and will be less relevant under self-financing.
- 2.3 It is Government policy that local authorities should not be prevented from disposing of housing assets where to do so:
 - assists effective asset management (particularly the disposal of unsuitable stock)
 - allows new investment in social housing
 - aids regeneration
 - helps create mixed communities
 - assists people into sustainable home ownership (especially existing social tenants).

2.4 Our proposed controls on disposals seek to:

- reduce, where possible, the legislative burden on local government
- protect tenants
- protect the Housing Revenue Account and the viability of the Housing Revenue Account business
- help control overall public sector debt
- protect the future supply of social housing.

2.5 A draft revision of the General Consents issued under section 32 of the Housing Act 1985, on which we would welcome your views, is attached at Annex A. Subject to any amendments made as a result of views expressed in this consultation exercise, we intend issuing this revised set to take effect in April 2012.

2.6 The following is a summary. Please note that “disposal” means the outright sale of the local authority’s interest, the sale of part of its interest, or the leasing of the asset.

Disposals at market value

2.7 We propose that local authorities should require the consent of the Secretary of State to dispose of housing land at market value only where:

(a) the disposal would result in a tenant of the council becoming a tenant of a private landlord

- when a council house subject to a secure tenancy is sold to a private landlord the tenants lose their secure tenancy status. It is for this reason that the local authority must consult all tenants before such disposals, ending with a ballot of them. The role of the Secretary of State in having the final say (should the tenants vote in favour) provides further comfort to tenants and the Government has no plans to change this.

(b) the disposal is to a body wholly or partly owned by the local authority:

- the Secretary of State wishes to ensure that the viability of the Housing Revenue Account business (and the controls on housing borrowing) is not compromised by moving assets out of the Housing Revenue Account whilst retaining arms’ length ownership. Local authorities will have to demonstrate to the Secretary of State that there is a sound business case for any such disposals.

Consultation Question 1

Do you think there are situations where such disposals should not require the consent of the Secretary of State?

If so, what are they?

- 2.8 Our proposal is that local authorities would not have to seek specific consent to dispose at market value to individuals or bodies not wholly or partly owned by them (e.g. registered housing associations) of:
- vacant properties
 - occupied properties to the tenants
 - properties occupied by tenants of other landlords (e.g. where the property has already been leased to a housing association)
 - communal parts of flats
 - garages, drying areas, and other housing assets that are not used as accommodation
 - empty plots of land.

Consultation Question 2

Do you think there are situations where such disposals should require the consent of the Secretary of State?

If so, what are they?

Disposal of reversionary interests

- 2.9 Local authorities will continue to be free to dispose to the occupants of their reversionary interest in houses and flats at market value.
- 2.10 This consent overlaps the right to enfranchise that the lessee of a house or the leaseholders in a block of flats have under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 or the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 (as amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002). No consent under section 32 of the Housing Act 1985 is required if the statutory right is exercised. However, circumstances may occasionally arise where the statutory right is not exercisable. For example, if the local authority is not the freeholder, the lessee/leaseholders may wish to acquire the authority's leasehold interest but not wish, or be unable, to acquire the freehold.

Consultation Question 3

Do you agree that local authorities should not require the consent of the Secretary of State to dispose of such interests?

If not, why not?

Disposals at discounts

2.11 Disposals at market value enable local authorities to pay off the debt associated with such properties, and thereby maintain the viability of the Housing Revenue Account business. Disposals at less than market value put this at risk and the Government wishes to retain some control over such disposals.

2.12 However the Government wishes to support offering up land and properties for sale at less than market value where this:

- helps social tenants into sustainable home ownership
- helps people find accommodation whom the local authority deem in need of support (e.g. certain key workers or former military personnel)
- helps create mixed communities
- assists the provision of new social housing or wider regeneration.

Vacant land sold at a discount

2.13 The current General Consents permit the disposal of vacant land at a discount determined by the local authority (which could be 100 per cent), but only where the land is to be used for certain specified purposes. The Government wishes to continue to permit such disposals, but leave it to the local authority to determine that the proposed use of the land will be beneficial to its community.

Consultation Question 4

Do you think that a limit should be placed on the amount of discount a local authority can offer on vacant land?

If yes, what should it be?

Consultation Question 5

Do you think that such disposals should be limited only to such situations where the land will be used for certain specified purposes?

If yes, what are they?

Homes sold at discounts

- 2.14 The current General Consents permit a number of discounted sales of council homes. The Government feels that these are overly complicated and that discounts should be more uniform and related to the Right to Buy (as provided by Part V of the Housing Act 1985).
- 2.15 The Secretary of State therefore proposes to give a general consent to the disposal to existing council tenants of:
- vacant houses up to the maximum discount to which the tenant would have been entitled had they had a tenancy of it
 - occupied houses to tenants who do not have the Right to Buy up to a discount equivalent to the discount to which they would have been entitled had they just qualified for the Right to Buy
 - occupied houses to tenants who have the Right to Buy acquiring with others who do not have that right at the relevant discount.
- 2.16 The Secretary of State further proposes to give a general consent to the disposal of vacant houses to people who are not existing council tenants at a discount up to that to which they would have been entitled had they just qualified for the Right to Buy.

2.17 We wish to make clear that (except in the specific case of a tenant seeking to exercise their Right to Buy with someone who does not have that right) it will continue to be the case that the General Consents cannot be used to dispose of a house to someone who would otherwise have the Right to Buy it. This is to ensure that a tenant isn't unwittingly disadvantaged.

Consultation Question 6

Do you think that these discounts are appropriate?

If not, what do you think they should be?

Consultation Question 7

Do you think that there are other situations where local authorities should be permitted to dispose of council housing assets at a discount?

If yes, what are they and what should the discount be?

Consultation Question 8

Do you think that there are situations included in the list above where local authorities should not be permitted to offer a discount?

If yes, what are they?

2.18 Local authorities will continue to have a general consent to extend or grant long leases on the appropriate terms that apply in accordance with the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 in the case of houses, and the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 in the case of flats.

Consultation Question 9

Do you agree that local authorities should not require the consent of the Secretary of State to dispose of such interests?

If not, why not?

- 2.19 Local authorities will also have freedom to grant a lease of a term of less than seven years and grant an assignment of a lease which at the date of the assignment has not more than seven years to run, but not if the lease is to a body wholly or partly owned by it.

Consultation Question 10

Do you agree that local authorities should be free to grant such leases?

If not, why not?

Should such leases be granted to local authority subsidiaries?

If yes, why?

Other discounted disposals

- 2.20 Those reading this paper need to keep in mind section 24 of the Local Government Act 1988, which provides powers to local authorities to provide financial assistance for privately let housing accommodation. Such assistance can include the disposal of an asset at less than market value.
- 2.21 These powers cannot be exercised without the consent of the Secretary of State, who, in 2010, issued General Consents under section 25 of the Act. These permit limited disposals of land and housing (including but not exclusively Housing Revenue Account land) at prescribed discounts to registered housing associations or for use as special needs accommodation (www.communities.gov.uk/publications/housing/consentsprivatelets).
- 2.22 A local authority using its powers under section 24 to dispose of a Housing Revenue Account asset obviates the need to seek consent under section 32 of the Housing Act 1985.

Shared ownership

- 2.23 The revised General Consents permit disposals without specific consent to individuals on shared ownership terms, either at market value or at a discount pro-rated to match discounts permitted regionally under the Right to Buy.
- 2.24 There will be no restrictions on the shares that might be offered. The rent paid on the share retained by the local authority however will have to be set at a pro-rated rate in line with Government policy on social rents. Local authorities will be able to set restrictions on sub-letting where they wish to do so.
- 2.25 These reforms mean that it will no longer be necessary to seek specific consent to offer Social HomeBuy sales.

Consultation Question 11

Do you think that there are situations where a local authority should require the consent of the Secretary of State before entering into a shared ownership arrangement with an individual?

If yes, what are they?

3 The Pooling of Housing Capital Receipts

- 3.1 The following paragraphs summarise the intended effect of the draft regulations (attached at Annex B). These are amendments to the Local Authorities (Capital Finance and Accounting) (England) (Amendment) Regulations 2003 (“the 2003 Regulations”)¹
- 3.2 The amendments, being introduced to accompany the introduction of self-financing and the alterations to the general consents on disposals, aim to:
- a. clarify those receipts that must be surrendered to central Government
 - b. simplify and make fairer the treatment of Social HomeBuy and other shared ownership receipts
 - c. simplify the provisions on determining when pooling payments are due
 - d. simplify the incentives for local authorities to buy back dwellings
 - e. rationalise and extend the provisions on capital allowance (including making the paying off of Housing Revenue Account debt permissible expenditure); and
 - f. abolish defunct provisions.
- 3.3 Please note that we are not seeking views on the principle of pooling itself. The Spending Review 2010 concluded that pooling (and in particular the requirement that 75 per cent of the net receipt arising from Right to Buy (and similar) sales be surrendered to central Government) should continue as a necessary part of addressing the deficit in the nation’s finances.
- 3.4 We are, however, amending the 2003 Regulations to make clear that sales similar to the Right to Buy are ones to existing (or recent) council tenants. Under our proposals local authorities will be free to retain the net receipt from sales to other individuals or bodies provided it is spent on affordable housing, regeneration projects or paying off Housing Revenue Account debt. We give more details of this below.
- 3.5 We shall welcome your views on the proposed amendments.

Application

Consultation Question 12

- a. Does any part of the Proposed Amendment Regulations explained below fail to effect the six aims listed above?
- b. Can any further provisions be introduced that would effect the six aims more successfully?

As far as possible, please arrange your answer in the order of topics as listed below.

Estimated and specified payments

Current position

3.7 Currently, one month after the end of each quarter, local authorities have a choice of making an estimated or specified payment. If an authority makes an estimated payment, then it has a further three months to make good any under-payment.

Intended change and reason

3.8 There are three reasons for altering the current provision:

- a. Inconsistent - Confusion exists as to whether authorities should make estimated or specified payments, so that local authorities risk experiencing inconsistent treatment.
- b. Bureaucratic - Many of the provisions are unnecessarily complicated.
- c. Unnecessary - Most local authorities have been pooling for seven years, and have become much better at calculating their quarterly pooling liabilities by the due date, rendering much of the detailed provision unnecessary.

Details of Proposed Changes (All contained in Proposed Amendment Regulation 7)

3.9 Regulation 12(3) is radically reduced:

- a. Current regulations 12(3)(a) and (b) both relate solely to estimated payments. Both paragraphs are revoked, since there is no more need for an estimated payment. Authorities need to make only a specified payment within one month of the last day of the quarter, as defined in regulation (2).
- b. Current regulation 12(3)(c)(i) is also revoked, because there will be no distinction between estimated and specified payments.
- c. Current regulation 12(3)(d) gives detailed provision in nine long sub-paragraphs on what to do if the authority has overpaid. This is reduced to one small proposed new regulation 12(3)(b). The current provision requires local authorities to sort out overpayments quickly and therefore sets out detailed deadlines. In practice, we have found these deadlines unnecessary. In general, local authorities have become more efficient in identifying over-payments, and, in the few cases where the process has taken longer, there has been good reason. While the Secretary of State retains the right to re-impose detailed statutory provision should the need arise, our proposal seeks to minimise the regulation in accordance with the Government's commitment to de-regulation.
- d. A further point to note about regulation 12(3)(d) is that the Proposed Amendment Regulation removes the provision for the Secretary of State to make a payment to an authority in those very rare instances where an authority's overpayment cannot be offset against its future pooling payments. The Department believes that, if necessary, those payments can be made without such explicit regulatory provision.

3.10 As a consequence of the above changes, current regulation 12(2) is altered by:

- a. omitting "subject to paragraph 3" since there is now only one deadline by which local authorities make their pooling payments without interest, the due date; and
- b. incorporating the definition of "due date" into this regulation, which had formerly been in regulation 12(3), thus making it clearer.

3.11 Current regulation 12(6) is revoked since the elimination of the distinction between estimated and specified payments renders all three definitions in that regulation redundant.

3.12 Current regulations 13(2)(a), 13(3) and 13(4) are all revoked. Currently, there are three possible circumstances in which the local authority could start to pay interest. The elimination of the distinction between estimated and specified payments means that for all authorities, in respect of every quarter, only one date, the due date (one month after the end of the quarter), is to be used as the start-date for calculating interest on unpaid amounts.

- 3.13 As a consequence of the change in the above paragraph, the reference to paragraph (3) in current regulation 13(6) is omitted and current regulation 13(7) is revoked completely, since interest is now payable only by virtue of regulation 13(2).
- 3.14 Current regulation 13(9) (among other things) applies to regulation 13 definitions outlined in current regulation 12(6). Since these are being revoked (see paragraph 3.11 above), then the references to them in this regulation can be omitted as well.

Implications of change

- 3.15 The cells in the quarterly LOGASNet Returns determining whether payments are estimated or specified can be omitted. More importantly, it will be clearer to authorities when they are required to calculate and make a pooling payment.

Social HomeBuy and Shared Ownership

Current provision

- 3.16 Receipts arising from all disposals of dwellings to owner-occupiers, whether a full disposal or on shared ownership terms, are treated in the same way as Right to Buy receipts, unless they are disposed of under a specific consent. The one exception is receipts arising from Social HomeBuy disposals, which are subject to special provision.

Intended change and reason

- 3.17 There are four reasons for altering the current provision:
- a. Complex - The current provision on Social HomeBuy receipts is complex and long-winded. This is especially difficult to justify when we estimate these receipts totalled less than £1m in 2010-11, less than 0.25 per cent of local authorities' total housing receipts.
 - b. Unfair - Receipts arising from shared ownership disposals are subject to the same restrictions as Right to Buy receipts. This is difficult to justify when an authority, having bought back an equity share, re-sells it thereby incurring a second pooling liability for effectively the same receipt.
 - c. Inconsistent - The current provision goes against the Government's proposals to make it easier for authorities to help their tenants to get a foot on the housing ladder.
 - d. Out of date - The General Consent 2005, which is the "relevant consent" referred to in regulation 14(3) and used for determining how receipts are treated, is being replaced (see Chapter 2 above). It is therefore appropriate to review what disposals to owner-occupiers should generate poolable receipts.

Details of proposed changes

- 3.18 Proposed Amendment Regulation 4 abolishes the definition of “Social HomeBuy disposal” and “available Social HomeBuy allowance” in regulation 1(5) (proposed sub-paragraphs (a)(i) and (ii)) and replaces them with the definition of a “shared ownership lease” (proposed paragraph (c)), which is based on the definition currently in regulation 19(4).
- 3.19 Proposed Amendment Regulation 5 revokes regulation 9A and Proposed Amendment Regulation 6 revokes current regulation 10(7) and the references to regulation 10(7) throughout the rest of regulation 10. The concept of a “premium” does not appear in the accounting treatment of income arising from a lease, and where such a sum is required for the purchase of a shared ownership lease (including a Social HomeBuy lease), then the sum is automatically a capital receipt.
- 3.20 Proposed Amendment Regulation 7 makes the following changes:
- a. Current regulation 12(4)(ab) is revoked.
 - b. Current regulation 14(1)(d) provides that an authority’s Social HomeBuy receipts may be reduced by any amount up to the value of its available Social HomeBuy allowance. The abolition of this allowance means that this provision is no longer needed. However, the creation of the buy-back allowance (see below) means that an equivalent provision is needed, hence the simple substitution of “Social HomeBuy” with “buy-back”.
 - c. Current regulations 14(2) to 14(2C), which disapply receipts arising from Right to Buy and Social HomeBuy, are reduced from three provisions to one, since there is no longer any need to deal with Social HomeBuy receipts as a separate category. The new regulation 14(2) disapplies receipts arising from any sale to a secure tenant or to one who was a secure tenant up to twelve months before the disposal, except sales of equity shares under 50 per cent of market value where there will be no further sales of equity shares beyond 50 per cent ownership for at least two years.
 - d. Current regulation 14(3), which defines “relevant consent” is revoked, since the proposed overhaul of the consent regime renders the term redundant.
 - e. Current regulations 16(3) and 16(4) ensure that the same expenditure does not count towards both Social HomeBuy allowance and capital allowance. An equivalent provision is needed for buy-back allowance, hence the proposed regulation 16(4), which replaces them both (see below).
 - f. Current regulations 16A and 16B define the expenditure that calculates both the total Social HomeBuy allowance and the available Social HomeBuy allowance. These are both revoked.

- 3.21 Proposed Amendment Regulation 8 revokes current regulation 23(g), which allows an authority to use capital receipts arising from Social HomeBuy sales for any of the expenditure that can make up the total Social HomeBuy allowance, even if it is revenue.
- 3.22 Proposed Amendment Regulation 9 revokes the Schedule to the 2003 Regulations, which defines a Social HomeBuy disposal.

Capital allowance

Current provision

- 3.23 Local authorities may retain all receipts arising from sales that are neither Right to Buy nor equivalent to Right to Buy, provided those receipts are used for affordable housing or regeneration projects.

Intended change and reason

- 3.24 The provision needs updating and rationalising. Also, we propose allowing authorities to count additionally any set-aside for the payment of housing debt towards capital allowance.

Details of proposed changes

- 3.25 In order to eliminate references in the 2003 Regulations to archaic legislation, Proposed Amendment Regulation 3 defines the new concept of “notifiable allowance”, which is the total of a local authority’s available capital allowance (as defined in current regulation 15) and available Social HomeBuy allowance (as defined in current regulation 16A) on 31 March 2012, the last day before the proposed amendment of the Regulations. Proposed Amendment Regulation 3 also requires a local authority to notify the Secretary of State of the level of its notifiable allowance by 31 July 2012, the due date of its Q1(2012-13) pooling payment.
- 3.26 Proposed Amendment Regulation 4 inserts the definition of “notifiable allowance” into regulation 1(5) of the 2003 Regulations themselves, ie what the local authority has notified the Secretary of State in accordance with Proposed Amendment Regulation 3.
- 3.27 Proposed Amendment Regulation 7 makes the following changes:
- a. Current regulation 16(1)(a) is revoked. This incorporates into the total capital allowance certain expenditure incurred before the 2003 Regulations came into force. In the unlikely event that an authority’s available capital allowance still contains such expenditure on 31 March 2012, this expenditure will be included in the notifiable allowance, which in turn will be included in the total capital allowance (see paragraph 3.25 above). This provision is therefore redundant.

- b. A new regulation 16(1)(a) is proposed, which simply includes the notifiable allowance (the calculation of which is described above) into the total capital allowance.
- c. Current regulation 16(1)(b) is revoked. The expenditure listed is covered by current regulation 16(1)(c) (which we propose becomes regulation 16(1)(b)) and we are not aware of any authority that currently relies on this regulation.
- d. A new regulation 16(1)(c) is proposed (together with a new regulation 16(3)), which would allow any amount used to reduce a local authority's housing debt to count towards the capital allowance. The definition of housing debt, set out in proposed regulation 16(3), is based on clause 158 of the Localism Bill. It assumes, of course, that the Bill will pass into law in its current form by 1 April 2012. Any deviation from that will have to be reflected in the amendment regulation.
- e. A new regulation 16(5) is proposed, which prevents any expenditure from being included in the total capital allowance more than once (and hence being netted off a receipt under regulation 14(1)(c) more than once).

(i) Regulation 16(5)(a) refers to expenditure that by 31 March 2012 the authority:

shall have decided to incur but has not yet incurred, and has not been used to reduce a capital receipt under regulation 14(1)(c).

Such expenditure would be included in the notifiable allowance and hence in the total capital allowance. Were it not for this regulation, then it is possible that at the point it is actually incurred the expenditure would be included in the total capital allowance a second time.

(ii) Regulation 16(5)(b) refers to expenditure that by 31 March 2012 the authority:

shall have decided to incur but has not yet incurred, and has been used to reduce a capital receipt under regulation 14(1)(c).

Again, were it not for this regulation, then it is possible that at the point it is actually incurred, the expenditure would be included in the total capital allowance, even though it has already been used to reduce a capital receipt under regulation 14(1)(c).

Buy-Back allowance

Current provision

3.28 There are currently two provisions:

- a. Where an authority sells a dwelling no more than three years after its repurchase of it, a repurchase which in turn was no more than five years after the authority sold the dwelling for the first time, then regulation 19 currently allows an authority to deduct the full buy-back costs from the receipt of the second disposal for the purpose of calculating the poolable amount.
- b. Regulation 20 currently allows an authority to deduct a proportion of all the costs of buying back dwellings it once owned (after making adjustments for any costs already deducted under regulation 19) from certain receipts received in the following financial year for the purpose of calculating the poolable amount.

Intended change and reason

3.29 While the intention behind the two regulations is sound, the actual provision is difficult to understand and gives rise to some anomalies. The two regulations have the same policy intention (to support local authorities to buy back dwellings from owner-occupiers who run into financial difficulties), but they are currently written as if they are completely separate provisions.

Details of proposed amendment

3.30 Proposed regulation 20 replaces current regulations 19 and 20. Paragraph (1) defines what expenditure may count towards the total buy-back allowance. This consists of two parts:

- a. fifty per cent of the buy-back costs of any repurchase of a dwelling (subject to the same conditions as currently set out in regulation 20); plus
- b. the remaining 50 per cent of the buy-back costs if that dwelling is sold again within three years, provided the repurchase took place no more than five years after the original disposal.

3.31 Proposed regulation 19 provides that the available buy-back allowance consists of the total buy-back allowance less any amounts by which housing receipts have been reduced by virtue of proposed regulation 14(1)(d), which in turn allows an authority to reduce any housing receipt, by any amount up to the value of the available allowance, for the purposes of calculating the poolable amount.

- 3.32 The provision works in a very similar way to the capital allowance and the current Social HomeBuy allowance. Eligible expenditure is “banked”, ie added to the allowance. The authority may then withdraw the available allowance as and when the need arises.
- 3.33 To prevent authorities from adding the same expenditure to both the capital allowance and the buy-back allowance we propose that:
- a. any amount that has already been included in the buy-back allowance (and eligible expenditure, subject to what is said immediately below, is automatically included at the time it is incurred) cannot subsequently be included in the capital allowance (proposed regulation 16(4)); and
 - b. any amount of expenditure yet to be incurred that has been included in the total capital allowance cannot be included in the buy-back allowance at the time it is incurred (proposed definition of “relevant costs” in regulation 20(2)).

Implications of change

- 3.34 There are five immediate changes all of which should be beneficial to local authorities:
- a. The separate provisions of regulation 19 and 20 are amalgamated into one, so that it is clearer how one provision dovetails into the other.
 - b. The expenditure may be netted off any housing receipt, not just those receipts arising from sales of dwellings that fit the criteria set out in the current regulation 20(2).
 - c. The proportion of expenditure that is currently deductible under regulation 20 has been increased from 47 per cent (after an initial deduction of £50,000 from all eligible expenditure in the year) to 50 per cent with no initial deduction.
 - d. Expenditure deductible under regulation 20 can currently be deducted only in the following financial year, whereas the proposed provision allows the authority to deduct the expenditure from a housing receipt in the same quarter as the expenditure is incurred.
 - e. Currently, if the authority has insufficient housing receipts in the year following that in which deductible buy-back costs have been incurred, such that some of those costs cannot be deducted in that year, then there is no opportunity in subsequent years to make any further deduction; some buy-back costs are thereby “wasted”. The proposed provision allows an authority to retain its eligible buy back expenditure indefinitely.

Transitional provision

3.35 Because the current regulation 20 does not allow buy-back costs to be deducted from a receipt for the purpose of calculating the poolable amount until the following financial year, then, by itself, proposed regulation 20 would allow eligible buy-back expenditure incurred in the financial year 2011-12 to be “lost”. Proposed regulation 21 therefore allows 50 per cent of any of this expenditure (minus any that has already been deducted from a receipt for the purpose of calculating the specified amount) to be added to the total buy-back allowance on the first day that the Proposed Amendment Regulations come into effect.

Consideration for former New Town assets

3.36 This provision, which currently applies to only two authorities, compensates for the arrangement whereby land originally handed over to these authorities by the Commission for New Towns is held on the proviso that, should the authority sell the land, at least part of the receipt must be handed over to the Commission for New Towns or its successor. This arrangement will end with effect from 1 April 2012 rendering the compensating provision, currently in regulation 20A, redundant.

Transitional reductions for debt-free authorities

3.37 The current regulation 21, which contained the provision for transitional reductions in poolable amounts for authorities debt-free on 31 March 2004, ceased to have effect from 1 April 2007. The provision is therefore revoked.

D. The general consent for the disposal of reversionary interests in houses and flats 2012

The First Secretary of State (“the Secretary of State”), in exercise of his powers under sections 32(2) and 34 of the Housing Act 1985 and section 133(1) of the Housing Act 1988 and of all other powers enabling him in that behalf, hereby gives to all local authorities in England the following general consent:

Citation, commencement and revocation

- D1.1 This consent may be cited as The General Consent for the Disposal of Reversionary Interests in Houses and Flats 2012 and shall come into force on XXXX 2012.
- D1.2 The General Consent for the Disposal of Reversionary Interests in Houses and Flats 1999 given on 11 February 1999 is hereby revoked.

Interpretation

- D2 In this consent:
- “building” includes any yard, garden, outhouses and appurtenances belonging to or usually enjoyed with it or any part of it;

“flat” and “house” have the same meanings as in section 183 of the Housing Act 1985; and

“long lease” has the meaning given to “long tenancy” in section 115 of that Act;

“qualifying tenant” has the same meaning as in section 5 of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993.

Disposal of a house

- D3 Where a local authority is the landlord of a house, which is occupied as housing accommodation under a long lease, the authority may dispose of its interest to the leaseholder for the best consideration that can reasonably be obtained.

Disposal of a building divided into flats

- D4 Where the conditions specified in paragraph D5 apply, a local authority may dispose of its interest in a building to the leaseholders of the flats in that building or to a company of which the shareholders are those leaseholders.

- D5 The conditions are that:

- b. all the flats are occupied as housing accommodation by tenants who have been qualifying tenants for the purposes of section 5 of the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993;
- c. where the disposal is to the leaseholders, the leaseholder of each flat (or leaseholders, if more than one, taken together) shall acquire an interest equal to that of the leaseholder (or leaseholders, taken together) of each other flat; and where the disposal is to a company, the leaseholder of each flat (or leaseholders, if more than one, taken together) shall have an interest in the company equal to that of the leaseholder (or leaseholders, taken together) of each other flat; and
- d. the consideration for the disposal is the best that can reasonably be obtained.

Subsequent disposals

- D6 The further consent of the Secretary of State shall not be required under section 133 of the Housing Act 1988 to the subsequent disposal of land which has been disposed of in accordance with this consent.

Commentary

- 1 This commentary provides some further explanation of the general consents. It is not intended to be comprehensive nor provide explanation where we believe the general consents are clear in themselves. Similarly it does not relieve authorities of the onus of satisfying themselves that any action they take is in accordance with the consents and the principal legislation.
- 2 For the sake of brevity the expression “dwelling” is used in these notes instead of “dwelling-house” and the expression “sale” includes any form of disposal permitted by the consent.
- 3 Section 44 of the Housing Act 1985 provides that a disposal of a house without consent is void, unless the disposal is of a single house to an individual. Section 32 Consent cannot be given retrospectively. Therefore, where a disposal is void by virtue of section 44 the remedy is to make the disposal again with the consent.
- 4 If a proposed transaction falls outside the terms of the general consents an application for special consent may be made to the Department for Communities and Local Government, Housing Revenue Account Reform and Decent Homes Division, Floor 1/H10, Eland House, Bressenden Place, London SW1E 5DU.

General Consent A

- 5 This is the principal consent.
- 6 Paragraph 3.1 permits local authorities to dispose of any dwelling at market value. Disposals to a body owned or partly owned by the local authority are not permitted and neither are disposals that would result in a local authority tenant becoming the tenant of a private landlord.
- 7 Paragraph 3.2 permits local authorities to dispose of vacant land, and this includes assets that are not dwellings (e.g. garages, drying areas etc), at any price determined by the local authority.
- 8 Paragraph 3.3 permits local authorities to dispose of dwellings at discounts equivalent to the right to buy discount to existing council tenants and others whom the local authority has decided need help accessing home ownership in the area (this latter group could include key workers or ex-military personnel, although that is for the local authority to decide).
- 9 The consent includes freedom for local authorities to dispose of unoccupied dwellings to registered housing associations at market value. Paragraph A10 provides that any disposal of a dwelling, which qualifies as social housing, pursuant to this consent must remain as social housing and will do so until it is sold by the registered housing association.²

² Section 75 of the Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 (as amended by Schedule 1 of the Housing and Regeneration Act 2008 (Registration of Local Authorities) Order 2010)

- 10 You will wish to note that General Consent A also applies to disposals on shared-ownership terms, including disposals under the Social HomeBuy scheme.

General Consent B

- 11 This consent relaxes the restriction in paragraph A1.2 by permitting an authority to make a voluntary sale to a sitting tenant, who has the right to buy and wishes to share it with someone who is not qualified under section 123: for example, a member of his family who does not reside in the dwelling or someone who is not a family member.
- 12 If the dwelling is a house, of which the authority is the freeholder, the authority must sell the freehold. In other cases, the authority must grant a lease of the same duration as it would do if the sale were under the statutory right to buy. The provisions restricting the recovery of service charges for the first five years also apply.

General Consent C

- 13 This consent permits dwellings held by police authorities, and by county councils and housing authorities under powers other than Part II of the 1985 Act, to be sold in accordance with general consent A. Paragraph A1.2 (bar on sales to sitting tenants who have the right to buy) applies to general consent C.

General Consent D

- 14 This consent overlaps the right to enfranchise which the lessee of a house or the leaseholders in a block of flats have under the Leasehold Reform Act 1967 or the Leasehold Reform, Housing and Urban Development Act 1993 (as amended by the Commonhold and Leasehold Reform Act 2002). No consent under section 32 of the Housing Act 1985 is required if the statutory right is exercised. However, circumstances may occasionally arise where the statutory right is not exercisable. For example, if the local authority is not the freeholder, the lessee/leaseholders may wish to acquire the authority's leasehold interest but not wish, or be unable, to acquire the freehold.

The seven consultation criteria and this consultation

This consultation document and consultation process have been planned to adhere to the Code of Practice on Consultation issued by the Better Regulation Executive (BRE) in the Department for Business, Innovation and Skills (BIS) and is in line with the seven consultation criteria, which are:

- 1 Formal consultation should take place at a stage when there is scope to influence the policy outcome;
- 2 Consultations should normally last for at least 12 weeks with consideration given to longer timescales where feasible and sensible;
- 3 Consultation documents should be clear about the consultation process, what is being proposed, the scope to influence and the expected costs and benefits of the proposals;
- 4 Consultation exercises should be designed to be accessible to, and clearly targeted at, those people the exercise is intended to reach;
- 5 Keeping the burden of consultation to a minimum is essential if consultations are to be effective and if consultees' buy-in to the process is to be obtained;
- 6 Consultation responses should be analysed carefully and clear feedback should be provided to participants following the consultation;
- 7 Officials running consultations should seek guidance in how to run an effective consultation exercise and share what they have learned from the experience.

Representative groups are asked to give a summary of the people and organisations they represent, and where relevant who else they have consulted in reaching their conclusions when they respond.
